Field Marshal Wilson Killed By Assassins

Deed Attributed to Irish Republicans—Wild West Scene in Front of His London Home Where Gunmen Lay in Wait And Riddled Him As He Stepped From Motor Car.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 22.—Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, former chief of the British imperial general staff, was assassinated on the doorstep of his home today, as he was returning from the unveiling of a war memorial.

According to a version received at Scotland Yard (British police headquarters) at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon, one policeman and a civilian were wounded by the assassins. After shooting down the field marshal, the killers fled through the streets firing at the policemen who pursued them. It was a regular wild west scene with the desperadoes running a few steps then turning to fire from pistols which they held in both hands.

Field Marshal Wilson's body was riddled with bullets.

The assassins hid in the garden of his home and opened fire as he stepped from his motor car.

Two men were arrested charged with the actual assassination. Their names were withheld by the police. They were taken after a spectacular dash for freedom, firing pistols as they ran through the streets.

Field Marshal Wilson, a native of Ulster province (Ireland), had been named commander in chief of the Unionist army of volunteers which led to the belief on the part of Scotland Yard, that he had been killed by Irish Republicans.

The field marshal was a member of the house of commons and recently had taken an important part in the activities of the Unionist "die hards" in their opposition to the English cabinet's Irish policy.

It was understood that Field Marshal Wilson was directing the movements of the Ulster special constabulary and common report had it that he was chiefly responsible for the recent movement of the British military forces in Ulster that resulted in the capture of Belleek and Pettigo from the Irish Republicans.

Field Marshal Wilson served with distinction throughout the world war. He was 58 years old. He had been born in Ireland and always maintained a residence there. His London residence, the scene of his tragic death, was at 36 Eaton Place.

Field Marshal Wilson began his military career in 1884 as a member of the Royal Irish Regiment.

SPINNEWEBER HAS RIGHT ON STREETS

Judge Hasbrouck Decides Port Even Competitors Cannot Operate in City Because Spinneweb Holds Bus Franchise.

Judge Hasbrouck has given a decision in the case of Frederick J. Spinneweb against Jeremiah D. Relyea, Grover C. Walker, LeRoy Horton, Henry Neher and Ross Neher, in which he continues the temporary injunction heretofore granted restraining the defendants from operating bus lines in competition with the plaintiff over the streets of the city of Kingston, at a rate of fifteen cents or less.

Judge Hasbrouck holds that the license which the defendants obtained from the chief of police is not the consent of the local authorities which the statute prescribes as one of the requirements of the right to operate in the city streets, nor is their claim well founded that their service is but a taxi service.

He holds that it is but just that the corporation or individual to whom the state grants a franchise to meet the public necessity and promote the convenience, and who performs all the various duties which he cities, should have public protection for his franchise and privilege against the invasions of those who seek to use the public highway as a place of business and make no submissions to public regulations.

After the temporary injunction had been granted, the various defendants moved to vacate it. Judge Hasbrouck finds that Mr. Spinneweb has no grant from the town of Esopus, which has brought itself within certain provisions of the Transportation Corporation Law, and the inference must be drawn that so far as the existence of competition within that town is concerned it is not under statutory regulation. However, there is competition by the defendants with the plaintiff within the city of Kingston, for which Mr. Spinneweb holds a franchise, and the injunction order is modified in accordance with the facts stated in the opinion, and as modified is continued without costs.

On the hearings before Judge Hasbrouck, Augustus Shufeldt represented Mr. Spinneweb; the various defendants were represented by Henry E. McKenzie, with William D. Brinnier, Jr., of counsel.

Hotel Stock Sales Within $35,000 of Amount Required

The following message was received today by the committee that is engaged in selling $150,000 of stock in the new $750,000 hotel to be erected in Kingston:

Kingston is going to be very proud to have a hotel of this kind. Personally I think Kingston has done wonderfully and am much pleased with the splendid report. We are all ready down here to go ahead with our part of the program. I will do everything I possibly can to make the project a success. The more I think of it the more I like it. Have become very enthusiastic about it.

OSCAR TSCHIRKY.

Reports up to noon today indicate that more than $100,000 of the stock has been sold and that by tonight sales will have reached within $35,000 of the amount required.

TWO DEAD IN MINE BATTLE

Strikers Capture Property From Guards and Stop Operation—More Trouble Feared in Illinois Field.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Herrin, Ill., June 22.—Two persons are known to be dead, from seven to fourteen are reported slain and several more injured, in a pitched battle between striking coal miners and mine guards at the Strip mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, six miles from here.

The known dead are Sidney Morrison, of Chicago, a mine guard, and "Shorty" Henderson, of Herrin, a miner.

Armed guards furnished by the strikers, are reported today to be in control of the mine, after the regular mine guards had hoisted the white flag and agreed to cease mining operations.

Authorities fear that attempts will be made to close other mines in the district.

The cutting of all wires leading to the trouble zone made it difficult to obtain accurate information concerning the situation. It was reported that gangs of striking miners from adjoining districts were encamped in the hills.

Authorities are deeply concerned over the situation and the 130th Infantry, stationed at Carbondale, Salem and Cairo, is being held ready for mobilization should the services of troops be needed.

THE GOLDEN RULE INN AN ATTRACTIVE NEW RESORT

A new resort that adds to the attractions in the vicinity of Kingston is the Golden Rule Inn, recently opened to the public after elaborate rebuilding and furnishing. Located on the shore of Mirror Lake, about five miles south of this city, just off "the road to Kingston," the Golden Rule Inn caters especially to the motorists.

Walks and drives through the surrounding woods and groves; with bathing, boating and fishing in the lake, together with the thoughtful service rendered, combine to make this Inn one of the most pleasant spots in which to spend one's annual vacation or temporary outing. Excellent meals are served to transient guests at reasonable rates and rooms with board may be obtained by the day or week. Meals are served on a screened porch from which is a fine view of the lake. A short drive, in excellent condition, leads from the state road, to the inn, the entrance being conspicuously shown by signs.

HURLEY AVENUE MAN WENT TO SLEEP IN SCHOOL YARD

Had Too Much Hunch—One Speeder Fined.

About 11:15 o'clock Wednesday evening Officer Ray Van Buren saw a dark form on the steps of School No. 7 on Crown street, and on investigating found William Tappen of No. 65 Hurley avenue, drunk and asleep. This morning in police court William pleaded guilty to public intoxication and paid a fine of $5. He will be more careful in the future as to where he takes a nap.

Albert Schuessler of 218 Catherine street, was arrested Wednesday by Motorcycle Officer Kuehn on a charge of speeding 31 miles an hour on Broadway. In police court today he contributed $5 to the city treasury on his plea of guilty.

District Attorney Investigates. The investigation of the Saugerties High School robbery is now in the hands of the district attorney and an examination will be held in a few days to ascertain if any further clue can be secured. Quite a number of subpoenas will be issued and the matter thoroughly gone into by the district attorney.

JUST NATURALLY LIGHT FINGERED

Is William Green, a Negro of North Street, Who Walked Into a Store, Stole $28.61 and Hid It in First Dutch Church Yard—Sent to Albany Pen.

Wednesday morning William Green, a 19 year old negro residing at No. 173 North street, walked into the candy store of Harry Van Steenburgh, No. 79 Crown street, and finding no one in the store, leaned over the counter and from the shelf beneath helped himself to a handbag containing $28.61, in dimes, nickels and one penny, and left the store.

William's sole regret was that the money was not in bills as it made too heavy a load to tote around in his pockets so he visited the First Dutch Church yard and in the rear of the church found an empty dry goods box. Inside the box was a black stocking. He emptied the change into the stocking and then threw both stocking and bag into the box and went away from there expecting to return later, visit the carnival in the town of Ulster and have a good time.

In the meanwhile Mr. Van Steenburgh had discovered the theft and reported it to police headquarters. Sergeant Phinney was assigned to the case, and about 5 o'clock that afternoon arrested William who confessed that he was the thief and spent the night in jail. As William had not had time to spend any of the money the entire amount was recovered and this morning, after William pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in the Albany penitentiary, the bag and money was turned over to Mr. Van Steenburgh.

William on February 2 of this year was arrested on a charge of stealing candy and some money from a downtown store, and at that time was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail. He was released on May 2, and did not lose much time in repeating the offense.

Trotzky Backing Radek. By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 22.—Leon Trotzky, people's commissar for war in the Russian soviet government at Moscow, is backing Karl Radek, former Bolshevik envoy to Berlin, to replace George Tchitcherin as people's commissar for foreign affairs, according to an unconfirmed report received here today. It is said that Tchitcherin's resignation is being demanded, although there have been no outward signs that the Bolsheviks are asking the official decapitation.

Time Not Yet Arrived For Independence of Philippines

President So Informs Delegation Which Demanded "Immediate, Complete and Absolute" Independence—Policy of Giving Independence at Future Date Unchanged.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 22.—The United States government is not prepared to grant independence to the Philippines. That was the reply of President Harding today to a special mission headed by Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, which came to Washington to demand "immediate, complete and absolute" independence.

President Harding informed the Filipinos that although complete freedom would not be granted the islands at this time, the policy of the Republican party, providing for independence at some future date, remains unchanged.

"The time is not yet for independence," the president told the Filipinos. "At this time it is not for me to suggest the day, distant or near. Meanwhile I can only renew the proven assurances of our good intentions, our desire to be helpful without exacting from your private or public purse, or restricting the freedom under which men and peoples aspire and achieve. No backward step is contemplated, no diminution of your domestic control is to be sought. I do not believe the time has arrived for the final decision."

STRIKING MINERS CAPTURE MINE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Marion, Ill., June 22.—The battle between striking miners and the beleaguered employees of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, which began late yesterday, ended in victory for the miners today.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning the miners, several hundred strong, refused to abide by the truce which had kept overnight firing to a minimum, charged the mine en masse. They overpowered the 35 men they found entrenched there, dynamited the steam shovels and other machinery and set fire to the buildings.

Their prisoners they marched in the direction of Herrin, where they said they would put them on trains to be taken out of the district.

The news of the strikers' victory, was brought to Marion by Colonel Sam N. Hunter, who was on the ground as the representative of Adjutant General Carlos Black of Illinois National Guard in an effort to prevent further fighting. He saw the number of dead at two, with fourteen wounded.

No matter how large they may be, color or sex or where they came from, P. D. Q. will kill them and their eggs as if liquid fire had hit them.

Not an insect powder, no dust or mists; will not injure clothing, and will actually kill Moths, Roaches, Cooties, Bed Bugs, Fleas and Aids and puts an everlasting to the Pesty Devils, as it destroys future generations. Impossible for them to exist with its proper use.

Get from your Druggist's a 5¢ package; this will make a quart; each package contains a patent sprout to get them in the hard-to-get-at places. Special Hospital and Hotel size makes five gallons. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in liquid form in a handy bottle with patent sprout in each package. Your Druggist has it or can get it for you.

Customer: "Walter, a little bird told me this coffee was not strained."
Walter: "A little bird, sir."
Customer: "Yes, a swallow."

Prestige and good will, reputation and influence, hopes, dreams, programs and ideals are mighty sweet and handy to have about, but after all, it requires something more tangible than good wishes to keep the wheels turning.

Many men who say they would like to die with their boots on probably mean they would like to die with a boot-leg jag on.

The world gives its admiration, not to those who do what nobody else attempts, but to those who do best what multitudes do well.

Line Forms On The Right.

Just before the service the minister was called into the vestibule by a young couple, who asked that he marry them. He answered he had no time then but that if they would wait until after the sermon he would be glad to accommodate them. Accordingly, just before the benediction, he announced:

"Will those who wish to be married today please come forward?" Thirteen women and one man stepped up.

The modesty of my lady fair climbs upward by degrees. In years gone by 'twas ankle high, but now it's reached her knees.

Lives of great men all remind us. Life is really not worth while, if we do not leave behind us Some excuse for a smile.

Jurisdiction.

An alien who was trying to be excused from jury duty said to the judge: "I can't understand good English."

"Never mind," snapped the judge. "You won't hear any in this court."

The reason there are so few good husbands is that the test is so severe. A really good husband will register something which looks like genuine grief on learning that the household's favorite fern has died in spite of everything that could be done for it.

Girls are who try to drink and work. The stewed chicken of tonight is the canned peach of tomorrow.

Did you hear the chimney swallow, Freddy?
That wasn't the chimney, Ethel, that was I.

Be sure you are right—but don't be too sure that everybody else is wrong.

HOMESPUN YARN.

No legacy is so rich as honesty.—Shakespeare.

Cotton batting has been found excellent for cleaning smoked walls and ceilings over stoves and registers.

Isn't there some fruit juice left from last summer's canning that would taste good in cold water to the men in haying?

Fires of "unknown origin" could often be traced to electric light wires hung over nails, or to oily rags thrown in corners.

Don't throw away the young beet as they are thinned out of the garden. Beet greens are a fine early summer food which contains valuable minerals.

Aunt Ada thinks that if folks did some steady thinking on the kind of movies shown every day we wouldn't have to get agitated ever so often about a censorship.

An excellent hand book for canning and preserving time is the free bulletin on food preservation which has just been reprinted by the State Agricultural College at Ithaca. Ask for H-136.

Some of the old chairs now reposing in New York attics and woodsheds, their rounds worn by the feet of three or four generations, may be well worth painting up again. The fact that they've been long in the family makes them doubly dear to some folks.

PINE GROVE.

Pine Grove, June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knudson entertained friends from North Pine Grove on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mary Spielman of Millbank cottage called on friends in Blue Mountain on Monday.

Henry Burton, wife and daughters, Viola and Ethel and Miss M. A. Spielman spent Sunday evening with Edward Bishop and family in Saenger.

The young men, who have been spending some time at Burke Cottage, have returned to the city. Mr. Williams and family are now at their summer home in North Pine Grove. Ed Burke is working for E. B. Cadwell on the Shagbark Farms.

What a little paint will do

That wagon! Do you know it takes only 1 qt. of No. 54 (green) and 1 pt. of No. 53 (red) Certain-Feed Wagon and Implement Paint to give your wagon two coats? You can't afford to let paint scale off, felloes and hubs check, or metal parts rust, for the sake of so small an expense.

Our experience in handling all kinds of paints will help you get the right paint for the purpose. See us.

ULSTER'S WEALTH.

The present coal strike resulted in serious impairment of the subway and elevated railroad system in New York City on Monday and the apparently remote likelihood of its settlement, together with other combinations of circumstances, calls attention strongly to the necessity of water power development, in which many electric companies are engaging in all parts of the United States. This year's expenditure for hydro-electric development will amount to $65,000,000, or $19,000,000 more than was spent last year.

Franklin T. Griffith of Portland, Oregon, who is chairman of the water power development committee of the National Electric Light Association, is authority for the statement that practically all developments now under construction are being made to meet increasing demands on operating utilities companies, and these cost figures, representing only the cost of the hydro-electric plants, do not cover a considerably larger sum expended and to be expended in expansion of distribution and utilization system.

It would seem that the development of hydro-electric power in Ulster county alone is only in its infancy. The development at Honk Falls was one of the earliest installations for commercial use in this vicinity. Imperative need for further development resulted in the construction of the power plant at High Falls, and the present development at Dashville Falls probably will need to be supplemented by other water powers within a few years. The demand for electric current is increasing, the decreasing supply of coal available for commercial enterprises entirely aside from its cost makes it necessary to hasten water power development.

The advantageous position occupied by Kingston and Ulster county with respect to hydro-electric development and power are well understood far beyond our own boundaries. Not only have we been supplying current to our own citizens but we have hitched up with high tension wires with adjoining counties and supplied their needs. The completion of the Dashville Falls power plant and the accompanying expansion and extension of distribution now under way means increased efficiency in all directions.

A surplus of electric current is an invitation not only to industries already established to utilize it in preference to the more expensive and uncertain power generated through the use of coal, but industries from far away which are now dependent on coal accept it as an invitation to come here. There is no question that Ulster county's power development from the use of water now flowing to waste is ample for our own needs and those of our neighbors for generations yet unborn, and not only that, but Ulster county stands practically in a class by itself for that kind of development in this section of the United States.

Domestic consumers will take up the entire coal supply available within the next few years, so that industrial concerns will be required to seek a substitute for coal even though coal prices should be lowered substantially, which is unlikely. Development of plants for the production of power by oil would prove expensive, and besides, the automobile industry is making constantly growing demands for oil in all forms. There remains, therefore, only electric power, whose development by the use of water power is cheapest in the long run, although the initial cost of the hydro-electric plants may be large as well as the cost of constructing a distributing system. Fortunately, Ulster county can supply hydro-electric energy in abundance.

July and August are months during which the people do not get very much worked up over politics. But they can sit down and keep cool and at the same time think over what has been accomplished during the past year and a half to reduce the cost of state government and what has been done to put the affairs of the people in order. The Republican platform promised a business administration, and Governor Miller carried out the promise of that platform to the letter.

Newspapers editors will meet in the Catskills the latter part of the month.

month and when they return to their desks they should be able to write better, having seen the beauties of the section and having received the stimulation of a vacation, particularly one spent with others interested in the same line of work. Editors are human just like other folks.

Burroughs Nature Club Notes

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?
1. Why do snakes cast their skins?
2. How heavy do bears grow?
3. How is it that shore birds are sometimes found apparently flying far from the shore?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.
1. Do all birds eat insects?
Most land birds do, at least during part of the year, as the breeding season, when the parents eat insects and feed them to the young. Sometimes when insects have appeared as plagues, birds that ordinarily do not eat them, have turned to this diet while it was abundant. Even hawks and owls have been known to try insects under such circumstances.

2. Is the mule deer the same as the black-tailed? I hear it spoken of both ways.

Many persons call this species, Odocoileus hemionus, "black-tail." This is inaccurate, being by rights the name of Odocoileus columbianus, the smaller species of the Pacific coast, whose tail is really black on the outer surface. The mule deer has a white tail surrounded by a white patch, and only the tip of its tail is black. It frequents the Rocky Mountain region.

3. Please explain why gold fish put in a small volume of water without acclimation live and apparently thrive for a considerable time, when the general run of fresh or salt water fish will die within a few hours when so confined?

We can't explain this. It is known that gold fishes are uncommonly hardy, possibly from centuries of domestication and handling. They will live some times as much as two hours out of water when a "wild" fish would die within a few moments, or few seconds. The pool quality of water in which they swim is probably not so violent a change in medium for them as it would be for a fish accustomed to natural bodies of water. Of course the gold fish is not benefited by scant oxygen.

AGRICULTURE.

Spray, brother, spray with care. Spray potatoes here and there. Use enough and some to spare. Spray the bugs and spray for blight, Mix Bordeaux and use it right.

Uncle Ab says: Only the real friends travel the uphill roads with you.

Clean sweet milk goes with utensils kept in the sun out of dust and dirt.

Squashes and pumpkins need plenty of room and do best at the edge of the garden next to corn or pole beans.

Each quail on the farm saves five dollars to the owner in crops saved from the bugs it eats, someone has figured out.

Good breeding pays. One Washington county herd of Jerseys had five pairs of twins in one year, the herd sire is a twin.

Paint on the buildings and a neatly clipped front lawn are pretty good indications that the back fields and the barnyard are nothing to be ashamed of.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. William Tears of Middletown, were guests of Mrs. Tears' parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Birch on Sunday.

During the past two weeks lightning has struck three trees near the residence of Mrs. Isaac Sutton.

Mrs. Uriah Traphagen is spending a few days with her brother and family, Robert Trumper.

The circle will meet with Mary and Horace Dunsenberger this Thursday evening June 22, at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. G. B. Scholten was again called to Inwood, Iowa, on account of the very critical illness of his father. He will not preach his farewell sermon at New Hurley until Sunday, July 2nd. The pulpit will be occupied next Sunday by the Rev. Frederick Shield, Jr.

Several from this place attended the festival at Wallkill last Wednesday evening.

Arthur Shepton returned to this place on Thursday with his bride and on that evening some of the boys gave him a serenade. He will occupy the tenant house of F. G. Schoonmaker.

There was a large attendance at the Children's Day exercises last Sunday morning and the children all took their parts well. The Rev. Frederick Shield, Jr. gave a pleasing address to the audience.

SCENTED CURVE FOOLED BATTERS

With Its Aid Galluppers Collected to Victory After Victory Until They Met With the Reorganized "Emeralds"—Another Tale of the Mountain League.

"So you are a pitcher?" said Captain Ralph Roodboy of the famous Galluppers of the Mountain League as he surveyed an applicant for a pitching berth.

"You said it," replied the applicant as he shifted from one foot to the other.

"Good control and curves?" asked Roodboy, who was sadly in need of another twirler.

"That is just where I live," explained the applicant, "and I got one curve which I call the 'scenter' and you can believe me when I tell you it will win you the pennant if you give me a show."

"Get in there and show your wares," commanded Captain Roodboy, who was used to making snap decisions.

The Galluppers were having batting practice that morning and some of them snorted with merriment as they eyed the new applicant as he ambled out to the pitcher's box and prepared to hurl them over.

Their merriment quickly changed to gloom, however, when one after the other were mowed down before the "scenter curve" of the pitching applicant, who gave his name as Bijah Beelah.

Bijah it was noticed had a habit of rubbing his hand across his breast before hurling the ball. Not to keep the reader guessing as to what the "scenter curve" really was it should be said that Bijah had the front of his coat smeared with the strongest of strong Limburger cheese, and as he hurled the ball covered with the odor the batter would involuntarily close his eyes as the scent was whiffed to his nostrils causing him to swing wildly at the ball.

Not to lengthen the tale to an unnecessary length Bijah signed a contract on the spot, and it was his work in the box with his "scenter" curve that carried the Galluppers on to victory after victory until the news was waited even unto the ears of Captain Twin Gormley of the Busters, the hated rivals of the Galluppers for the Mountain League championship.

Captain Gormley, anxious to humble the Galluppers, made it a point to watch them play several games and soon became aware of Bijah's success and the reason for it. Now Twin Gormley had not won his spurs as a brainy player for nothing and he gave the matter deep thought and for several weeks nothing was heard from him.

Then on a holiday when the Galluppers had an open date they received a challenge from the "Emeralds" to play for the gate receipts, winning team to take all.

As Bijah was going strong—that is not meant as a joke—and had not lost a game the challenge was accepted.

It was not until the "Emeralds" swung onto the field for batting practice that the Galluppers became aware of the fact that they were led by Captain Twin Gormley of the hated Busters.

"How's this?" asked Captain Roodboy.

"Oh," explained Twin Gormley, "I have just reorganized the Busters and we are playing under the name of the 'Emeralds' this season."

"Emeralds or Busters," retorted Captain Roodboy, "it is all the same to us and we'll send you home with a wallowing."

"Maybe," grinned Twin Gormley, "but it takes more than mow to win a ball game."

"How are you feeling Bijah?" asked Roodboy as he stood to one side talking with his pitching ace.

"Fine as a fiddle," said Bijah, "and take it from me, captain, those Emeralds will sure turn a darker green when they whiff my 'scenter' curve."

The Galluppers took the field first, and the Emeralds gathered around the home plate to listen to last instructions from Twin Gormley.

Then the first Emerald took his stand in the batter's box. Bijah wound up and started off with his famous "scenter" curve.

Alack and alas the Emerald batter took one healthy swing at it and it disappeared over the center field fence for a home run. It is hard to continue the tale but before Roodboy yanked Bijah from the box the despised Emeralds had scored ten runs.

"Emeralds" shouted Roodboy at the end of the game which resulted in a score of 11 to 0, in favor of the visitors. "Emeralds my eye. The nearest they ever got to the Old Sod was the name."

Captain Roodboy was correct. For once he had been outguessed. Twin Gormley, realizing that he wanted to beat Bijah's "scenter" curve and the Galluppers had spent the several weeks picking up a team of Dutchman and who ever heard of a Dutchman who would shut his eyes on the odor of good old Limburger cheese.

And the echo answers: "None."

Keep House Plants Moist.

A piece of sponge, quite wet, and kept in each house plant has been found to result in greenness and freshness instead of the withering which so often overtakes house plants. Their failure to do well is due not so much to the heat of the house as to the dryness of the atmosphere. The saturated sponge should be pressed in among the leaves and stalks as near to the center of the plant as possible.

XII. TRANSFORMERS

These are instruments designed to transform or change one kind of electrical current to another such as alternating current to a direct current, and are very useful and essential devices in radio telephony. There are many kinds of transformers, but all are built, or rather based, upon the same principles, which is that of induction, or the formation of a current in a coil of wire by the passage of another current through another coil near it. As induced currents are only produced when the magnetic field is changing, the current induced by a transformer can only be secured by means of some mechanical device or by an alternating current. When the former is used the transformer becomes a spark-coil or induction-coil (see coils) and the means by which the primary current is alternately broken or interrupted is the buzzer or contact at the end of the iron core of the coil. But if an alternating current is run through the primary wires of a transformer no interrupter is required, as the magnetic field changes each time the current rises and falls. There are two general types of transformers in use, one known as an "open-circuit transformer" which is exactly like an ordinary sparking coil and consists of an iron core covered with two windings of wire known as the primary and secondary, Fig. 28. A very often, where such a transformer can be used, an ordinary spark-coil with the contact-breaker screwed down answers every purpose. The other type is known as the "closed-core transformer" and consists of a number of iron plates or laminations in the form of a hollow square and which are wound on one side for the primary and on the opposite side for the secondary, Fig. 28, B. Although either one of these types may be used at home, yet it is not advisable to attempt it. In the first place, several thousand turns of secondary wire are required and it is a tedious and difficult matter to wind these on evenly and well. Moreover, the number of turns of primary and secondary wire must be very carefully proportioned and must be worked out on mathematical lines in order to secure the proper reactance or the tendency to resist the flow of the alternating current. Finally, transformers are not expensive and the cheapest are far more efficient and are better made than anything that you can make yourself.

PHOENICIA.

Phoenicia, June 22.—The M. E. Sunday school observed Children's day Sunday evening and nicely rendered an excellent program. Each number on it carried a lesson for all. The church was artistically decorated, the color scheme being green and white, while the fern altar rail, touched here and there by pink roses, gave the touch of relief. Back of the pulpit strands of ferns buttoned with daisies hung, and daisy chains reached out from here and festooned into the church body.

At the foot of the door drapery lauds were bunched and on either side giant ferns swayed. The decorating committee was the Rev. and Mrs. Meeker. Mrs. Stuart, Mr. Short, Mrs. A. P. Loomis and Miss Harriet.

Lorna Van Demark and Nancy Merrihue. Mr. Meeker as chairman deserves much credit in his untiring efforts in getting ferns and in the execution of the plans of decoration. Mr. Short ably assisted him. The committee thanks all who in any way helped in getting flowers and stringing daisies. The special music outside the chorus numbers by the school and choir was a solo by Mary Van Steenburgh, Nancy Merrihue, Beulah Short, Earl Smith. A duet by Mrs. A. P. Loomis and daughter, Harriet, and a song by Chickie and Bunny Doremus. Elnora and Margery Brethaupt. The choir was composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. Brethaupt, Mrs. Elvy, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Schoonmaker, Beulah Short, Elizabeth Warren, Lorna Van Demark, Harriet Loomis, Mrs. W. Van Steenburgh and daughter, Mary, Carl Smith, Karl Neice, P. Winchell, C. Short and the Rev. Meeker. Nancy Merrihue presided at the organ.

Those reciting were Ethel, Helen and Edward Ford, Billy Malloy, Emily and Douglas Longyear, Donald and Herbert Clark, David Neal, Fred and Richard Stuart, Arthur and Kenneth Short, Elizabeth Clark, Elnora and Margery Brethaupt, Dorothy and Lillian Horner, Elizabeth Warren, Floyd Hill, Gross Warren, Earl Smith. "Wild Roses," spoken by Harriet Loomis, was the closing number. The superintendent, Mr. Winchell, announced the program and gave a few chosen words of welcome. The Rev. Meeker gave a few remarks fitting the occasion. Elder Kline, secretary of the Sunday school, and Frederick Clark, took the offering. The program committee wishes to thank all who assisted in the music and literary part.

Earthquakes at Sea.
An eruption occurring at sea is called a sequake and the chief effect is the production of huge waves and violent commotion of the water of the sea. In 1854, during an earthquake at Simoda, Japan, the waters of a bay were first agitated, then retreated, leaving the bottom bare in places where the water had been 30 feet deep. A wave 30 feet high then rushed in and swept everything in its path. Other earthquakes have destroyed cities and shipping: part of the destruction in the Messina earthquake was caused by a wave produced in this way.

Give From Sea's Flippers.
Hitherto the flippers of the whales caught in our waters have been regarded as a waste product, but the Fisheries Bureau finds that they will yield 67 per cent of their weight in very excellent glue. It hopes to find a market for seal flippers with the glue manufacturers. Each year about 35,000 for seals are killed on the Pribilof islands in Bering sea. Receiving four flippers at eight pounds, the annual production of flippers is 100 to 140 tons.

AN IDEAL INVESTMENT

The First Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds we are offering make an ideal investment for citizens of the Central Hudson Valley. They provide:

- 1—Safety of Principal,
- 2—Certainty of Income,
- 3—Good Rate of Interest,
- 4—And will finance the development of this community.

These bonds, which are issued under authorization of the Public Service Commission, may be converted on any interest date into Preferred Stock paying 7%. They are to finance the construction of a new and bigger water power, and an extension to the transmission system for the bringing into the Valley increasing quantities of economic power.

They may be purchased in 100, 500, and 1,000 dollar lots for cash or, under our partial payment plan, for a small amount down and the balance over a period of nineteen months. Under this plan, every dollar invested in these bonds earns 6% interest from the time it is paid in.

ASTORS DID WHAT OTHERS COULDN'T

Their Pitcher's Homer Won Wednesday's Ball Game 3-4 After Triple Play And Other Thrills Had Kept Fans on Edge of Their Seats.

If you had happened to cast your eyes in the vicinity of Rhinebeck last evening, you would have perceived a particular bright red in the sky. If you had been curious and inquired the reason there-of, you would have been informed that some two or three hundred residents of the village across the river had just returned from Kingston, and were celebrating the victory of the Astor club over the colonials of this city. For 'tis true, the unexpected happened, and in a game that was a thriller from the start right up to the last man was out, the Dutchess county boys were returned the victory by a 5 to 4 score.

To lose a ball game once in a while is something to be expected, but to lose a game like that of Wednesday was particularly hard. All the more so because time and time again the Colonials had men on the bases with fine opportunities to score, but some sensational work on the part of the Astor players would turn the Kingston boys back when everything looked bright and rosy. And, to cap the climax, it was a home run drive by Pitcher Kilmer of the visitors that gave his team the winning run.

That rare feat of baseball, a triple play, was executed by the Rhinebeck team in a brilliant manner in the third inning. It was the first play of its kind pulled in Kingston in so long a time that many an old timer had to look up the records to see when the last play of the sort had been made on a local field.

Fitzgerald led off in the third with a hit to right and went down to second when Jack Robins sent one to left. Just out of Havens's reach, Bobby Coyle loaded the bases with a single to center. Three men on and no one out. It looked like a merry-go-round for the Colonials, but instead here is what happened. Deegan hit a short fly to left and Havens captured it for the first out. Fitzgerald tried to score on the catch, but Havens shot the ball on a line to Hueston and Fitz was doubled at the plate.

In the meanwhile Robins was tearing for third, but a perfect throw, Hueston to Haight, caught Jack as he slid into the bag. Three out, and several rooters from Rhinebeck temporarily lost their reason.

That triple play wasn't the only unusual feature of the game. In Kingston's half of the fifth Bill McAuliffe lifted the ball over the left field fence for a home run, and in the same inning Bobby Coyle performed the same feat with Fitzgerald on first base. These three runs gave Kingston a handsome lead, but as events proved they weren't enough.

McAuliffe was assigned by Captain Schirck to the task of keeping the winning streak of the Colonials intact. As far as the hitting went Mac pitched very well, allowing seven safeties in the nine innings, but lack of control was the big factor in McAuliffe's defeat. Three wild pitches inserted at critical moments put the Kingston pitcher in bad places.

The Colonials were the first to score, sending a runner over in the second. Schwab went down on four wide ones and when Hueston attempted to nab him off first, the throw was wild and Schwab went to third. Dutch Glaser sent Schwab in with a single over short.

Not until the fifth did the Rhinebeck team enter the rubber, but they tied it up in this frame. One man was down when Havens sent a hit to right that went for two bases. A wild pitch by McAuliffe sent Havens up a bag, and when Pottenberg got his second hit of the game Havens scampered home.

The tie score didn't last long, however, for the Colonials set about promptly to break it in their half of the same frame. Moore went out on a fly to Haight, but McAuliffe hit one on the nose and dropped it over the left field fence. Dewey failed to pick up Fitzgerald's grounder and Leo made first in safety. Robins hit to Haight, whose throw to second was too late to force Fitzgerald, but Nuhn's throw beat Jack to first. Bobby Coyle almost broke up the game then and there by driving Coyle of Pottenberg's fast ones off the lot, the ball dropping over the left field fence for one of the longest hits made on the new grounds.

Rhinebeck came back in the sixth and got two of the runs back. McDonald singled to right as a starter, and was held on first when Russell fled to Fitzgerald. McAuliffe lost control for Leonard and sent him to first on four bad ones. A wild pitch sent McDonald to third and Leonard to second, and then Dewey slammed a single to center, scoring McDonald. Another wild pitch on McAuliffe's part sent Leonard over the rubber. Ed Phelan, the Schatz club outfielder, went in to hit for Nuhn and walked after working the count to three and two. Dewey and Phelan were left when Havens struck out and Hueston went out on a hit to McAuliffe.

Kilmer, who had relieved Pottenberg in the sixth, got a life in the seventh when Glaser missed his grounder and then threw wild to Coyle. Kilmer going to second. A sacrifice by Haight put Kilmer on third, from where he scored on McDonald's grounder to Moore.

With Kilmer entered the ranks of the heroes by putting the ball over the fence just inside the foul line, putting his team in the lead. The Colonials had a great chance to even it up in their half of the ninth, but failed to come through. Glaser started it off by going to first on a walk, and Cragan, who ran for him, went to second on Moore's sacrifice. McAuliffe waited Kilmer out and also strolled, putting runners on first and second with one down. But Havens gathered in Fitzgerald's fly and Dewey smothered Robins's hit for the final out.

Tim Jordan, first baseman of the All-Nationals, was pressed into service as an umpire when Umpire Seixas failed to show up. Tim worked the bases in a satisfactory manner.

Enormous Yearly Rainfall.

Rainfall is usually recorded in inches and fractions of an inch. One expert, however, declares that weather bulletins would be more graphic if the amount of rainfall were expressed in miles and tons. Thus, instead of having the official statement of the rainfall in one state for a certain year read, say, "forty inches," this expert would change it to read "forty-three and nine-tenths cubic miles." He has calculated that the rainfall in one year throughout the United States amounted to 1,298.4 cubic miles of water, and that the annual rainfall weighs about 6,000,000,000,000 tons. Only a small part of that vast amount reaches the sea through rivers and streams; most of it is evaporated from the land.

Origin of Mine Gas.

An interesting suggestion has been offered concerning the source of the explosive gases in coal mines and the cause of their variation in quantity. In mining districts, it is pointed out, the earth's crust is always on the move, owing to the advance of the workings. Both above and below the seam that is being worked the rock strata are strained and rent by the removal of their support. Thus fissures are formed, and the imprisoned gas finds a way of escape into the galleries. Before its liberation it is probable that the fire-damp is under considerable pressure in its rocky prison.

"Leyden Jar."

A Leyden jar is a glass jar or bottle used to accumulate electricity so named from having been invented in Leyden, Holland. In its common form, it is coated with tin foil, within and without, well up toward its top, and is surmounted by a brass knob which communicates with the inner coating. To charge the jar, the knob is connected with an electric source and the outer coating with the ground. Electricity of the same kind as the source is then accumulated on the inner coating, and the opposite kind on the outer.

Japanese Ideas That "Persist."

Popular belief in Japan has it that if one employs the same road going to and from a funeral, the evil spirits, now acquainted with the route, would be inclined to lead another relative of the deceased to the graveyard. Young men only are employed to do tree grafting in Japan, as it is the belief that they impair their life and vigor to the grafted parts. Educated Japanese say that these beliefs are not superstition; that the ideas just simply persist.

Africa Grew First Coffee.

By far the greatest amount of coffee is grown in Brazil now, though it was not until 1740 that any coffee was grown there. The first coffee was grown in Africa and it was King Louis XIV who first thought of growing it elsewhere. He conceived the idea of growing it in the French West Indian colony of Martinique. From there it was introduced into other West Indian plantations and then by the Dutch into Java and Sumatra. It was introduced into India in 1700.

Effect of Radiating Seeds.

By careful measurement of the quantity of carbonic acid produced by germinating radish seeds, Alfred C. Redfield and Elizabeth M. Bright, both of the Harvard medical school, found that seeds which had been exposed to the action of radium rays produce that gas more rapidly than those that have not been radiated. Production of carbonic acid gas is a measure of the rate of metabolism, which is the process of growth and breaking down that takes place in all living matter. —Washington Star.

KINGSTON, N. Y.

NO FORT IN 1615
AT PONCKHOCKIE

Van Buren Finds Much Evidence That Dutch Traders Centered Activities Around New York and Albany for Many Years.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir:—I read with great interest and pleasure Judge Clearwater's address delivered on the fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the city. It has undoubtedly been clipped from your columns by many persons. It will be preserved, referred to and quoted, as an authentic history of Kingston. He spoke in his official capacity as historian of the city. He unquestionably intended the address to present only facts, not guesses or surmises. I think he, as many others have done, has fallen into an error which should be corrected. He states that a fort was built at Ponckhockie by the Dutch in 1615. There is no certain evidence that this is so.

I have always been interested in the history of our country and have made it a study. I have been fortunate enough to procure and have in my library almost everything that has been written upon the subject and here give your readers all I can find relating to the matter. Of course, there may be other records of which I have no knowledge and if so, not only I but many others would be glad to know it.

On the 11th day of February, 1665, the States General of Holland in a manifesto declared that their possession of New Netherland "Exceeds forty and fifty years, which is the longest time that a title by possession may be acquired, for it is now over forty years that we are in possession of the town of New Amsterdam with its forts and more than fifty years since we are in possession of Forts Orange and Esopus, the one and the other with the lands and countries depending thereon."

The English seized New Netherland in 1664. Sir George Downing, the English ambassador to the States General, in presenting his case in 1665, claimed in a communication addressed to them: "That that spot lies within the limits and is part of the possessions of his (the king's) subjects of New England and that those few Dutch that lived there have lived there merely upon connivance and sufferance."

The manifesto of the States General in reply to the claim of Ambassador Downing, Holland regarded the capture of her colony a great outrage and deeply resented it. We may be sure that her title would be asserted in the strongest possible terms and the facts would be stretched to the limit. This manifesto is the only piece of evidence that I can find. For the above reasons and others now to be given, I think it extremely improbable that a fort was built at Ponckhockie or anywhere within the present limits of Ulster county in 1615 or at any time prior to 1660. It is certain that there was no settlement in Ulster county prior to 1652. Occasionally a Dutchman may have stopped at the mouth of the Esopus and Rondout creeks to trade with the Indians, but there is no evidence that any white man had settled there before that date. Why then should a fort be erected? What was its necessity? There were no people to protect, nothing to defend against hostile attack. Both Brodhead and O'Callaghan, the historians of New Netherland, express grave doubt as to there being any fort at Esopus prior to 1660.

Now for the negative evidence. In 1614 some merchants of Holland caused a "Figurative Map" of their discoveries to be made and laid it before the States General. In 1656 a map by Van der Donck was made. These show the river from its mouth to Albany. Neither shows any forts or settlement at Ponckhockie.

In 1688 Catevyn Trico made her deposition in which she states that she came to this country in 1622. That "When as ye ship came as far as Esopus, which is 1/2 way to Albany; they lightened ye ship with some boats that were left there by ye Dutch that had been there the year before a trading with ye Indians upon their own accounts, and gone back again to Holland and so brought ye vessel up."

Nicolaes Van Wassenae, writing in 1624, describing the Hudson river and the mouth of the Rondout creek says: "There are two or three tribes." He mentions Fort Orange. Johannes de Laet, a director of the West India Company in 1625, published his "New World or Description of West India." He describes the Hudson river and states that Fort Orange was built in 1614. Referring to the mouth of the Rondout, he says: "There is a sharp point of land that juts out, with some shoals, and opposite a bend in the river, on which another nation of savages, the Waeranecks, have their abode at a place called Esopus."

David Pieterszoon de Vries sailed up the river to Fort Orange in 1640.

AN IMPORTANT SALE
COMING SOON.

It's a sale which means real savings to the folks who turn from the hot leather footwear to the comfortable cool, canvas kinds so popular nowadays.

A wonderful stock of Outing Shoes and the more dressy styles in canvas shoes will be ready for inspection and afford wide choice at remarkably low prices, when the Sale Opens this Saturday.

It's another of S. B. Thing & Co.'s famous annual outing shoe sales. It will pay you to read the large advertisement appearing to-morrow and see the bargains in the windows.—Advertisement.

The account of the voyage states: "The 27th (April) we came to Esopus where a creek runs in and where the savages had much maize land but all somewhat stony."

In April, 1633, the States General asked some of its directors what were the limits of the country of which it had possession? They replied, "We occupy Manhattan on the North River, where there are two forts, Orange and Amsterdam, and there is moreover one house built by the Company (House of Good Hope) on the Connecticut river, near Hartford." That is most of the population.

Under date of October 25th, 1634, the managers of the West India Company in a memorial to the Company on its title to New Netherland state: "Likewise that one or more little forts were built, also under your High Mightiness' chief jurisdiction, even before the year 1614, and supplied with people for the security of the said trade."

Brodhead in his history of New York and O'Callaghan in his history of New Netherland both refer to the above memorial of 1634. The former states that he thinks only one fort was built and that it was on Castle Island near Albany and was built in 1614. The latter, "that in 1613 the traders erected and garrisoned one or two small forts on the river for the protection of the fur trade" but does not give the location of the forts. The log book of the ship Rensselaerswyck states that the ship arrived at Manhattan March 4th, 1637, and sailed up to Fort Orange. Mention is made of the "kroote esopus" river.

Under date of November 3th, 1660, in a memorial from the West India Company to the States General it is said that in the year 1610 some merchants sent a ship to New Netherland, "and they likewise, in the year 1615, built on the North river about the island of Manhattan, a redoubt or little fort, where were left a small garrison, some people usually remaining there to carry on trade with the Indians. This was continued and maintained until their High Mightiness' did, in the year 1622 include the country of New Netherland in the charter of the West India Company. This province was then immediately occupied and taken possession of by the said Company according as circumstances permitted as is the case in all new undertakings. For which purpose they caused to be built there since the year 1623 four forts, to wit, two on the North river named Amsterdam and Orange, one on the South river called Nassau and the last on the Fresh river called the Hope."

Under date of December 15th, 1644, The Board of Accounts of the West India Company made a report on the condition of New Netherland. It states that in the year 1623 the Company took possession and in 1623 built Fort Orange on the North River and Fort Nassau on the South River and Fort Amsterdam at Manhattan and in 1629 Fort Good Hope was erected on the Fresh River.

The Remonstrance of the people of New Netherland (1649) gives a general description of the country since 1623-1624. It states that four forts were built. One at Manhattan called Fort Amsterdam, Fort Orange, Fort Nassau on the South River and Fort Good Hope on the Fresh River. The Journal of New Netherland written in 1641-1646 states that "since the year 1623 the Incorporated West India Company caused four forts to be erected, two on each of the rivers, named Fort Amsterdam, stands on the point formed by the Mauritius and the other river already mentioned, six and thirty miles further up another fort called Orange, that on the South River is named Nassau and that on the Fresh River Good Hope."

In 1657 Dominic Mesopolensis wrote a letter to the classis of Amsterdam giving a description of the condition of the church in New Netherland. He says: "About eighteen (Dutch) miles (54 English miles) up the North River half way between the Manhattans and Rensselaer or Beverwyck lies a place called by the Indians Atharhacton. It is an exceedingly fine country. There upon some Dutch families settled there who are doing very well. They hold Sunday meetings and one of the others of them read from the Postilla."

Valentine's history of the City of New York states that in 1614 or 1615 a fort was built at the head of the river on an island, opposite the present site of Albany and one on Manhattan Island.

Although the authors of the above records give a description of the Hudson River and the mouth of the Rondout Creek, although they mention the building of Forts Amsterdam, Orange, Nassau and Good Hope, not one of them mentions a fort at Ponckhockie or at any other place in Esopus. A very strange omission. To me this negative evidence is overwhelming and this is the opinion of every historian who has examined the matter. In this connection it may not be amiss to state that I asked the opinion of Mr. A. J. F. Van Laer upon the subject. He is State Archivist and has spent years in translating the Dutch records. He certainly is an authority upon any matter relating to the Dutch period of our history. He informs me that he knows of no record stating that a fort was built anywhere in Esopus prior to 1660.

But this is not all. In 1658 Thomas Chambers and some of the other settlers at Esopus wrote Governor Stuyvesant of the growing hostility of the Indians and asked for protection. The Governor arrived at Esopus in 1658. It was at this time that the stockade was built. Neither in the account of this or any other of the many visits of Stuyvesant to Esopus, neither in the long account of the Indian war of 1658, nor in the voluminous correspondence between the settlers and Stuyvesant, in short, in none of the accounts of Esopus is there made mention of a fort until the date of September 13th, 1657, the Directors of the West India Company, evidently in reply to a letter from Stuyvesant, write him that "a redoubt at the Esopus would be advantageous but the finances of the Company would not permit it." Stuyvesant, however, went ahead and in 1660 a fort was built on the Rondout Creek near its mouth. This is the first evidence of a fort in the land of the

MILLION INCOME

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 22.—The number of Federal personal income tax returns for the calendar year ended December 31, 1920, filed in New York state was 1,047,634 representing net income amounting to $4,030,623,634 and tax (normal tax and surtax) of $286,507,280.

As compared with 1919, the above figures show a growth of 364,544 in returns filed, as well as an increase in the total net income amounting to $394,280,577 but a decrease in the tax of $113,185,971.

The proportion of the population of the United States who filed personal income tax returns for the calendar year ended December 31, 1920, was 8.85 per cent; whereas the proportion of the population of New York filing returns was 19.93. The average net income per return for the United States was $3,269.40, whereas for New York it was $3,847.34 and the average amount of the personal income tax per return in the United States was $148.98, while for New York it was $273.57.

1916.—Number of returns, 93,153; net income, $1,922,864,651; total tax $77,970,521.

1917.—Number of returns 189,089; net income, $2,774,035,148; total tax, $251,785,795.

1918.—Number of returns, 559,753; net income, $2,719,712,781; total income $3,542,263,477.

1919.—Number of returns 682,088; net income, $3,436,343,179; total tax, $329,792,351.

1920.—Number of returns, 1,047,634; net income, $4,030,623,634; total tax $286,507,280.

The number of returns has increased from 23,155 in 1916 to 1,047,634 in 1920, the net income from $1,922,864,651 to $4,030,623,634 and the total tax from $77,970,521 to $286,507,280.

In 1920 there were 15 returns on incomes between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000.

AUGUSTUS H. VAN BUREN.MAC NIDER SPURS
ON LEGION DRIVE

The attack for members by Kingston Post, American Legion which is scheduled for July 1-4 will show an advance by the local post in which they expect to capture the majority of those ex-service men outside the legion, thereby adding to the driving strength of Kingston Post.

Having a membership of over 500 a present, and with 1,200 ex-service men in the city and vicinity to draw upon, those interested in the advance of Kingston Post see nothing less than fifty per cent increase in the forces of the local post by July 1.

While members have been asking ex-service men to join and help carry the packs of the wounded and disabled, the result has not been what Commander Leighton expected, so the drive has been ordered by Kingston Post with Post Commander Dittus, as officer in command.

The national commander has sent each legion post commander a letter, seeking 100 per cent cooperation in making July 1-4 membership days, a complete success. It is not, certainly enough, a letter from the national commander to the post commander in the official sense. It is a plain man to man, "Jack MacNider to his buddies" epistle that warns the rookies, etc., of the heart. It's too good for the post commander to enjoy all by himself, and here portions of it are passed along.

"I'm going to ask you and your post to do a big thing. I know how you have been plugging for the legion, old man, and the many things you have to do. But I want you to put your one big effort into one final spurt this year, and we are not going to holler again."

Then Jack tells the gang how proud he is and how proud we all should be for what the outfit has done this year, and he thanks them, each and every one, officially and personally. And then he says something that should be posted in every legionaire's chapeau.

"However, one man out of every four can't be expected to carry the packs of the other three—that is exactly what we of the legion are doing. We want to correct that situation. This is the big legion year and the year that is going to tell the story."

"Saturday, July 1, is National Membership Day. We want your help in putting your post over its last year's membership with your department leading the union. Perhaps your post is already over. If you are—go out and help the rest of 'em get in. Personally, we are putting every bit of effort we have in making this the big constructive legion year. Are you with me?"

"This is no private fight. It's a noon commencing at 3 o'clock."

general engagement all along 5th line, with the whole works in it. For the lad just on the dotted line tooth last course engineer. Get your post organized—appoint some hard-hat line committees—get your whole organization ready with such a wallop that every ex-service man and woman in your community will belong to in post before that day is over."

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, June 22.—Mr. Powers, who has been in Lewis, I Snyder, returned to her home in New York last Friday. Her daughter Helen will stay there until joined later by her mother and sister, to the summer vacation.

Willard Braby, who has been employed by the Cornell Steamboat Co. of Rondout for some time, has secured a position with another firm. We wish him success in his new position.

Our day school closed for summer vacation last Friday.

Mr. Frank Pines of Mount Maric spent two days last week with Mr. Emma York.

A festival will be held for the benefit of the church, at church hall, the Fourth of July, afternoon and evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A birthday party was given in honor of Anna C. Shuler last Friday afternoon at her parents' home. Those present were: Catherine J. Stalla, Belle, Vivian, Brian, Caroline and Wollan Wroolston, Miss Short, Catherine and Margaret Mee, Francis Wolven, Carl, Charles, Edna Shuler. A happy time was had by all.

Abram V. Felten of Danbury Conn., was an overnight guest of his mother, Mrs. Amanda J. Felten, Tuesday night.

Mrs. Charles Steele and child came Saturday to spend the summer months at their cottage here.

Catherine Laux, Mahel Short and Edna M. Shuler are taking regenerative examinations at Woodstock this week.

Mrs. Darrow and daughter of New York have come to her bungalow here.

Mr. Fabino has put a Red auto by on his route between here and Saugerties, and now can carry more passengers.

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, June 22.—"Friendship" will be the subject of the sermon in the Reformed Church Sunday morning at 10:30. The Rev. Thomas S. Brinkhwaite, preacher. Appropriate music by the choir. Christian E. Leaver Sunday evening 7:30. Mission meeting Wednesday.

There's a safe and satisfying course for everybody in the selection of a table drink.

Postum has charm without harm. It's the safe drink for all, and probably, therefore, it's the better drink for you.
Thousands have found it better, and fully satisfying, for them.

ROXMOR ECHOES
ROTARY SONGS

Members of the Kingston Rotary Club, their wives and friends motored to Woodland Valley Wednesday evening and there enjoyed a turkey dinner served amid the rustic surroundings at Roxmor Inn. Col. Frank B. Maltby, resident engineer in charge on the construction of the dam at Rifton for the United Hudson Electric Corporation, was the guest of the club and spoke briefly of the work which is being done there toward the manufacture of electric energy from the water power of the Wallkill river.

At the conclusion of the dinner the Rotarians were given a surprise by William C. Hussey, who in his brief exploration trip about the valley prior to dinner had discovered a musician of exceptional ability. Mr. Hussey introduced Mr. Scribner of Jersey City, one of the cottagers at Roxmor, who certainly did provide a surprise in the way of entertainment. Mr. Scribner entertained with several selections on a harmonica and although he explained that the instrument was slightly out of tune and he had been unable to secure a new instrument of that type since the war, the ability of the musician was unquestioned and at the conclusion of several numbers the Rotarians and their friends began to wonder what more Mr. Scribner could have done with a new instrument.

Mr. Miller of Roxmor welcomed the Rotarians to Woodland and felicitated them on their good conduct, which at times was rather noisy as the usual Rotary songs were called for by Harry P. Dodge, and invited them to again come to Roxmor at some future date.

Islands in Great Salt Lake.

There are several islands in Great Salt Lake. On these islands, which, like the lake's shores, are whitened by salt, immense flocks of gulls, ducks, geese and pelicans breed each year. On Antelope island, the largest, alfalfa is cultivated and cattle are raised. Antelope island, also known as Church Island, is about eighteen miles long.

DE VALERA NOT FOR OPEN WAR

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Dublin, June 22.—Eamonn de Valera's statement that he does not expect Dail Eireann will ratify the new Irish constitution, was generally accepted today as meaning that he does not plan to lead his followers in a renewal of open warfare against its advocates.

The statement was interpreted as meaning that de Valera plans to fight the adoption of the constitution in the Dail in spite of his waning strength, as shown in the latest returns.

"By a threat of renewal of the infamous war our people, harassed, weary and fearful of chaos, have in the majority voted as England wanted," de Valera's statement said. But their hearts and aspirations are unchanged and Ireland unfree, will never be at rest or genuinely reconciled with England."

DEMPSEY ANXIOUS TO FIGHT JESS

Bout To Be at Michigan City and Scrap With Wills at Montreal in Group as Promoters Jockey About For Biggest Purse.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 22.—Dempsey to pole-axe Willard again, this time at Michigan City, Ind., on Labor Day. Dempsey and Wills to put on their black and white debate at Montreal some time within the year.

This is the good word that goes out as Jack Kearns, Frank Flounoy and the worthy Mr. Rickard went into executive session today on the most question of Dempsey's opponents. It comes from a man so close to the subject, Mr. Rickard, that he can reach into the promoter's vest pocket with his elbow. The Montreal site is certain, provided Kearns and Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, can reach a financial agreement. This seems entirely possible in view of Kearns' statement upon his arrival here yesterday.

"I have never had an offer of any kind of a purse for a Dempsey-Wills match," he declared. "If the New York state athletic commission wants Dempsey to fight Wills, let it produce a promoter who will make a definite bona fide offer. Then see how quickly Dempsey will do business."

Kearns added that he was in a mood to accept what he terms a "reasonable" guarantee but wished to make it clear that any action the commission might take was not bounding Dempsey into a bout with Wills. He scoffed at the idea that the public would accept Wills in the role of commission-made champion.

If the match is made, the choice of Montreal is well nigh inevitable. Political entanglements, it is said, will keep it far from Jersey City. There is no stadium in New York unless the esteemed Mr. Rickard gets out and builds one large enough to make the thing a paying venture and Michigan City is not deemed to possess the allurements of the Canadian town.

They have only heard in a vague way of Mr. Volstead up that way, and it is thought that affluent, albeit thrifty, gentlemen, will rush, rather in droves, they will come as a source of considerable comfort to the man at the box office window.

Now for Willard. That individual yearns for action against Dempsey and the champion has no wish to disappoint him. Indeed, he is all for mungling with Willard again, at so much a mangle, and since the bout will draw more cash customers than the scheduled push over with Bill Brennan, the latter is said to be out.

As a matter of fact, Leo Pandemonium Flynn says that Brennan has not signed to fight Dempsey and will not until he gets his price. What that might be can be imagined from the fact that Leo set $10,000 on Brennan's head when approached on the subject of a match with Willard.

Boy Versus Monkey.

It would not be difficult for a boy to outrun a monkey on the level, but there is one species of monkey known as the Potos monkey, built something like a greyhound, which can lope along at 18 miles an hour.

REBUILD THE WORN DOWN BODY!

Vitamines Are Essential

Work, Play, Sleep, even the mere act of living, keeps wearing down the body tissues as water wears down rock. And if you don't keep continually rebuilding these tissues, your weakening constitution will give way ahead of your destined hour and let you sink into an early grave.

The experience of a century has marked good, clean, wholesome vitamin beverages brewed from cereals as one of the most effective means of building up the constitution of men and women. Today the largest development of brewers' skill is represented in the delicious, healthful cereal-based, enjoyed everywhere under the name of "West End Pilsener."

"A little bottle of West End Pilsener, taken with every meal, builds up good firm flesh, because of its high vitamin and cereal content," says a man who knows.

Secure it regularly at meals. Case of 24 bottles costs only $1.75, plus $1.00 deposit, which is refunded on return of the empties. If your grocer can't supply you, phone 2006 or 1403-R. Kramer & Siegel, 200 Chambers Street, Rondo, distributors.

BUYING SECOND-HAND JUNK

Attending How Many Successes to Lure Which Holds Forth in New York City.

If not every man then every other man in New York City is mad as a March hare about the desirability of owning somebody else's old junk. While he neglects to take care of what belongs to him already he mingles forth under the sway of an irresistible impulse to collect the cast-off props of another man. This is true, too, of women.

It is grossly unfair, of course, to leave the idea that what they collect so avidly and search for so earnestly is trash. Strictly speaking it isn't. Neither is it entitled to be put into the antique class. It is just old stuff, with more or less good left in it. But it seems to attract this odd portion of the populace simply because it is second hand. Are those who buy so little certain of their own sense of selection of new goods that they want something upon which the stamp of some other person's approval has already been visibly set?

If not that, why is it that junk and rummage relics do so surely find cash buyers? It is not because they are cheap, though most would say if they were asked to give a reason. Watch these collectors closely. The rummage sort of goes to their heads, and they buy and buy as long as they have money.

TAKE DELIGHT IN MANIKINS

Venetian Children Prefer Antics of Marionettes to Any Moving Picture Show.

Fashions in entertainments never change among patrons of the resourceful Tony Sarg in New York, nor yet on the shores of the Adriatic, homeland of the marionettes. The Venetian child wouldn't give a pin for movies while he has the beloved jointed mannikins of his ancestors to execute their wonderful maneuvers and about the speeches of Romeo and Juliet or one of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tales or—yes, or—some exciting episode in the detective career of Sherlock Holmes.

Thursday afternoon is the triumphal time of the marionette all over Italy, for Thursday, not Saturday, is the school holiday, and childhood's dearest delight is to witness the drama of the dolls, a New York writer states.

Venice has the best public performance. The dolls are about four feet high. Any necessary number of characters are placed on the stage and their entrances, exits and antics are managed by the man above, who does the wire pulling and who puts the speeches into their mouths. All sorts of plays are given, and the ordinary type of Punch and Judy show is less common than fairy tales and Shakespeare on children's afternoons.

Frigate Bird's Endurance

For pure and unadulterated impudence, lack of principle and of all virtue, the frigate bird is pre-eminent. These birds must be endowed with prodigious powers of flight. They are often seen hundreds of miles from land, appearing as mere specks in the sky.

After hovering almost motionless for a considerable time they take flight in ever-increasing circles in the direction of their island homes, which have of necessity to be reached ere the setting of the sun, unless the faculty of sleeping on the wing is possessed by them.

I have never met or heard of a man who has seen the frigate bird rest on the waters of the ocean over which it delights to wander.

Next to the albatross, I enter the frigate bird for the aeronautic endurance stakes.—Buffalo Express.

Sugar Fungus

It is reported that an expert of the Department of Agriculture has discovered that the spoiling of granulated sugar, stored in damp places, results from the development of a microscopic fungus, seen in the form of threads and round bodies, and capable of being artificially cultivated, so that experiments can be made in inoculating sugar previously free from the growth. Three species of this fungus were found in some barrels of sugar which had become unfit for use. It grows readily on all kinds of cooked vegetables, but chiefly on raw vegetables.

Girls Only

In the midst of a busy afternoon, a girl, age thirteen, came to the desk of a branch library and said in a discouraged tone:

"You used to have a little red book for girls only, but I can't find it now. I read part of it and want to finish it."

The puzzled assistant decided here was a case for imagination and suggested obvious books, as "Little Women," "Six Girls," with no success. Finally, as a last resort, she guessed at random:

"Was it 'Keeping Up With Lizette,' by Rachel?"

And it was.

NEW YORK CENTRAL OPPONES JORDAN PETITION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 22.—The New York Central railroad, by Amos Van Etten, of Kingston, its attorney, yesterday opposed before M. D. Mintz, hearing deputy, the petition of Martin Jordan to the Public Service Commission for a certificate for the operation of an auto bus line between Kingston and New Paltz. Mr. Van Etten gave testimony showing the present train service by the railroad between these two places and the revenues received by the company. C. J. Flanagan of Kingston represented Jordan. Decision was reserved.

How Came the Word Academy

Away back in the fifth century before the present era, the Athenian philosopher Plato carried on his philosophic teaching in a training park for athletes. This park was owned by a man named Akademos. Hence the park was called Akademia. The word Akademia gradually came to be applied to the place where Plato trained minds, and its use as the designation of Akademos' physical training quarters fell into the limbo of forgotten things. Thus the word Akademia (or academy, as we have it) took on the meaning of a place where minds are taught how to think. Despite the sweep of many centuries and races over the original Greek stock, the place where Plato taught, near Athens, is still called Akademia.

Rinso

FOR THE FAMILY WASHING

No rubbing, no boiling

Soak the clothes that's all

Washing machine size

Here it is—the big new package that thousands have asked us for

IN answer to women the country over who are using Rinso we have brought out this big new package. At every step of the family wash Rinso does the work.

Millions of women who soak their clothes have found that just soaking in Rinso loosens all the dirt. On the places where the dirt is actually ground-in they rub a little dry Rinso, and even this dirt rinses out.

When they boil their white cottons they pour enough Rinso solution in the boiler to give them the suds they like.

Washing machine owners use Rinso because with it they don't have to rub even the places that used to need special attention.

Rinso takes the place of bar soap. Use it at every step of the wash. Ask your grocer today for the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

The most favored intoxicant in the Marquesas is manu-ehi, or, as it is more commonly known, koko. Ehi is Marquesan for coconut, and it is from the coco palm that this most insidious and delectable of drinks is made. A null coco palm that has been wind-blown so that its plummy top leans far to the perpendicular, is chosen. The buds, which essentially grow in pairs or sixtiys, would be produced very near a compact, oblong cluster near the top of the palm. The native climbs the tree and, using long strips of bark or fiber, binds the cluster of blossoms tightly round and round, until the result resembles a huge, flat cigar protruding from the fronds. Underneath the point of this bowl is suspended and the tip end of the wrapping sliced off.

After the second day it begins to drip freely, but the end must be sliced fresh every twenty-four hours to stimulate the flow. In this manner a tree will furnish one or more gallons a day for several weeks.

When fresh from the tree the beverage resembles a delicious lemonade. With a flavor which would make the fortune of a soft-drink manufacturer he could reproduce it. Fermentation takes place speedily, however, and in a few hours your soft drink has "hardened" into a vicious man-killer that only a savage can go against with impunity.

Captain Cook's report placed the Marquesas literally and figuratively on the map. That was 145 years ago, and since then the history of the islands is the tragic story of a losing fight by a race of savages against a civilization represented in this instance by the whaler, the missionary, the trader, the "blackbird," and finally the conquer and subjugation by a foreign power.

In 1842 Admiral Du Petit-Thouars took possession of the entire group in the name of France, ostensibly to protect the missionaries in their abode for nativity. Forts were built on several of the islands and troops landed under French authority.

The ensuing fifty years is a record of continual warfare between the ranch soldiers and the Maricopa warriors, in which the latter, always war with each other and poorly armed, were constantly defeated; of "backborders" from North and South America, who raided the weakened villages and sold the men and women to slavery in the far lands, and of frequent ravages of smallpox, cholera, typhoid, and other diseases.

of Agriculture.)

Cultivation has another object, in that it breaks up the soil particles and makes plant food available for the feeding rootlets of the plants. Many persons, however, make the mistake of cultivating too deeply, and by so doing cut off or injure the feeding rootlets and deprive the plant of its source of nourishment and support. Frequent shallow cultivation during dry weather results in the formation of a layer of fine dust which serves as a mulch or blanket to retain moisture.

The hoe and the steel rake are the most important tools for cultivating the small garden. On a larger scale a wheel hoe or a horse cultivator may used to advantage. The wheel-hoe outfits are provided with a number of different attachments adapted for the different types of work to be performed. These implements have the advantage that one can go over the short time. It is generally necessary, however, to follow with the hoe and the fingers to remove any weeds that have not been destroyed by the wheel cultivator. Even where horse-drawn tools are occasionally used, the greater part of the work, especially during

ry weather, may be performed by means of a common steel rake. It is not necessary to go very deeply into the soil, but merely to stir the surface.

all can be made from a piece of thin cardboard 2 inches wide and 14 inches long. Whittle one end whittled down to form a handle and the opposite end provided with three No. 6 or No. 7 wire nails. This little home-made implement can be used very soon after a rain to loosen the surface, so that any small seeds can break through.

It should be borne in mind that the best time to kill weeds is when they are just coming through the ground. If allowed to become established, it is much more difficult to get rid of them than if they are taken in time. If the top 2 inches of soil is kept continuous-

Take Place of Oats and Are More Profitable as Cash Crop—Of Benefit to Soil.

Soy beans fit perfectly in rotation in the place of oats, making a four year rotation corn, soy beans, wheat, clover, they being more profitable than oats as a cash crop, and leaving the soil in much better shape, both as to mechanical condition and fertility, as little or no preparation for wheat is needed on land from which a crop of well cultivated soys has been mowed.

WOMAN'S PARTY COUNCIL MEETS

About Time for Woman President, Says Mrs. Belmont—Men Have Had Control 20 Centuries and Now Women Should Have Chance.

Telegraph to The Freeman.
Port Washington, N. Y., June 22—A woman president of the United States? Certainly, why not? Mrs. O. P. Belmont, president of the National Woman's Party, was talking politics in her home, "Beacon Towers," today.

"There is nothing at all extraordinary about that," Mrs. Belmont continued.

"Sex," she said, "has nothing whatever to do with it and should not even enter into consideration. It makes no difference whether it be man or woman, as long as the right person is in the right place. Ability and integrity should be the qualifications which should place the right woman or man in the right position. All else makes not even a particle of difference."

"We have had man's view of things for twenty centuries—and we are not satisfied—now give woman a chance. It is high time their viewpoint be aired. We want a highly talented person—regardless of sex—who is best equipped to serve humanity and our country. Further, the Woman's Party desires to judge who this person shall be—men have judged long enough and, we are quite capable of judging, too."

"Let me emphasize," said Mrs. Belmont, "that the Woman's Party is not interested in discrimination. Women are beginning all throughout the nation to serve humanity. We want to see the right man or the right woman in the position where they will be best able to perform that service."

"We will put up our opinions against that which men have set up as their opinions—and the United States shall judge which is right and which is wrong."

"Women will undoubtedly set a naturally higher standard, forcing the men to raise theirs—thus eventually benefiting the whole human race."

Preliminary plans toward a permanent woman's party platform, will be outlined late today at Mrs. Belmont's home when the national council of the National Woman's Party, comprising representatives from all parts of the nation, will be in session.

MR. VAN WINKLE SHOWS UP FOR ANOTHER PARADE

Also, Crosspatch's Mistress Explains Her Purpose.

Rip Van Winkle says he is going to be at the Crosspatch Community Celebration to be held in Willow valley, all day and evening of July 4th.

Last Wednesday, a venerable stranger, with long beard, rusty gun and ragged clothes drove into Crosspatch yard.

"Been readin' about that Fantastic Parade you're going to have Fourth of July and I aim to go in it and mebbe take the prize."

"Everybody is welcome. What character were you thinking of taking?" asked Mrs. Cross.

"Myself—Rip Van Winkle," was the solemn reply and the forlorn little dog with him, gave a mournful howl.

Rip was in a somewhat worn buckboard and Mrs. Cross recognized the horse as belonging to a former neighbor.

"No, I didn't steal 'em, I borrowed 'em and I'm going to take 'em back, but I'm getting pretty old and all this rain we've been havin' lately may be good for the hay, but it's hard on old creaky joints."

During quite a lengthy conversation, Rip pointed out that that he had been seen in Kingston two or three years ago, but spent most of his time up in the mountains with Hendrik Hudson and his crew, just as of old.

However, Rip allowed he wanted to go in the Parade of Fantastics and his present call was to warn against any counterfeit Rips that might turn up.

Quite a number of enquiries have been received about the proposed parade. It is very simple. A "fantastic" costume may be anything from a ragged tramp to the impersonation of a historic figure or group. As done in New England for the last century it was mostly a humorous and grotesque assemblage of jolly rascals, who decked themselves out in ragged costumes and paraded with a sort of home made jazz band constructed of kitchen utensils purloined at odd moments when mother wasn't looking.

Mrs. Cross is asking her neighbors to follow this old tradition, but any car decorated with flags or bunting may fall in after the Fantastics. A prize will be given for the best group and for funniest individual costume. The parade will start at 10:30 in the morning, daylight saving time, and wind around the lovely valley of Willow and back to the red barn now known as Crosspatch Annex, where the celebration will be held.

This is the barn that the Red Cross fitted up for the convalescent soldiers last summer. Crosspatch will extend the same courtesies this season and quite a delegation of the American Legion are expected at the Fourth of July celebration.

R. C. Dittus of Kingston has been invited to give a patriotic talk, as Mayor Crane modestly pleads that he cannot make a speech. His plea has been accepted and he is expected to attend as the guest of honor. One or more good speakers from New York are expected.

The voting contest for the prettiest girl at the celebration still stands with two city candidates, whose friends have deposited a good many five cent votes to their credit.

In this contest you may vote as early and as often as you like and switch to any candidate at the last moment, no matter what your early allegiance. The greatest irregularity will be permitted, so that many nickels may roll in for the road improvement fund between Crosspatch mountain house and Willow.

The various high school boys and girls of Kingston and neighboring places who have been distinguishing themselves at games, are especially asked to enter for the sports of Crosspatch, Fourth of July. Prizes will be given for each event.

Mrs. Cross will be at the Crosspatch Annex from 3 o'clock until 5 every afternoon next week to consult with those who want to take part in the celebration. She can also be reached by Captain Blythe's phone at the Willow post office at those hours.

"Quite a number of people have asked me lately what Crosspatch is," says Mrs. Cross.

"Briefly, Crosspatch Community Center, on the mountain, is an old barn on our place that I remedied at my own expense in order to have a recreation and educational center for our somewhat isolated mountain people."

"It is not commercial, we have no hotel or bungalow colony to be benefited. There is only our own little old farm house and practically not another building in sight. Our neighbors and friends always contribute to the expense of our parties and celebrations. A number of New York friends help with the general civic work and with the Christmas party which has been the biggest event of the year.

"Americanization" is about the word which expresses the idea of Crosspatch. By joyous observance of holidays and a bit of education for the children, we try to keep alive American ideals and cultivate good will and good citizenship.

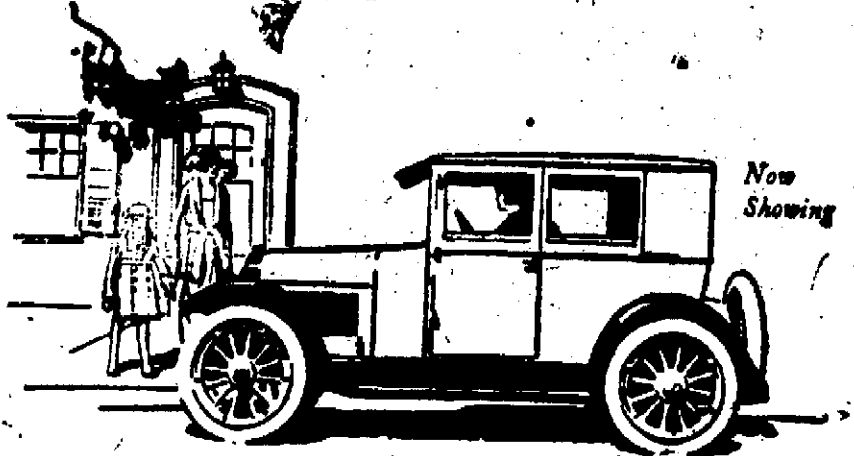

Highly Colored Statement.

"If the white race is sufficiently respondent, to find the reason for adoption by perfumers and soap makers of the sign of the civet cat, for the days when the chemist boasted that he would make soap in his laboratory that Mother never invented, the race and color civet perfume was obtained from cats in Africa and Asia, where civet cat was caught from the fox. The animal, which differs in color from any ordinary cat only in the color of the arrangement and of the teeth, and the claws which were retractile, has highly developed glands near its tail which secrete a generally "fuzzy" and very domestic animal, but fierce.

NASH

Nash Leads the World in Motor Car Value

First Showing of

THE NEW NASH CARRIOLE

$1350

f. o. b. factory

The arrival of our initial shipment of the new Nash Carriole is an event worthy of your immediate interest.

This is a new model in the Nash line and it strikes a very popular note with its combination of open car economy and closed car convenience.

It is equally practical for business and family use.

The beautiful and roomy all-metal body, similar to those of America's best coupes and sedans, is of rich and lustrous finish.

Upholstery and luxurious interior trimmings are of the finest grade wool cloth.

The parlor-car type front seats are individual with a wide aisle between. The two doors are unusually wide, making easy entrance and egress.

The long, graceful lines of the Carriole give it an appearance in striking contrast to its amazingly low price.

It is powered with the Nash Four-Cylinder Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor and is exceptionally comfortable and inexpensive to maintain.

It would be advisable to place your order at once, as we will not be able to supply everyone who wants this model.

Alfred E. and Albert V. Kastner

One of the most remarkable instances of twins graduating the same year is the case of Alfred E. Kastner and his twin brother, Albert V. Kastner, sons of Colonel and Mrs. Joseph Kastner of New York city. Albert graduated at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis with high honors, while Alfred graduated at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, standing equally high in his class.

Forest and Sea.

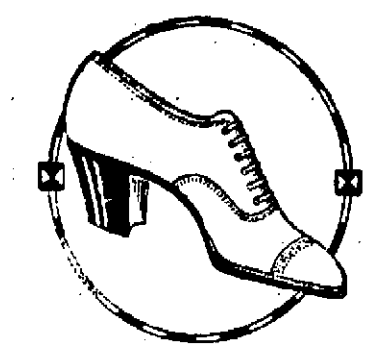

A forest is nature's expression of the idea of the home. The home signifies an interior, and the forest and a Gothic church emphasize the interior; while in the sea (as we have noted) and in the Greek temple, the exterior is the particular manifestation. The ocean suggests homelessness, and the ancient had no home. The home came from the forest race. A forest means shelter, protection, and stands for the individual's right to quiet and seclusion.

Shoes That Add to Your Vitality!

Shoes that blind and distort the feet are a source of constant irritation. They drain your nervous energy, distract your attention and lessen your ability to concentrate and to work. Such shoes are a drawback to health and success. If you would enjoy the best that life has to offer of buoyant strength and achievement, change to the comfortable, helpful Cantilever Shoe.

It is well built on a last that conforms to the contours of the foot. With the natural inner sole line, the toes point straight ahead and are comfortable. A share of the weight of the body falls easily on the ball of the foot.

The well-set heel encourages good posture, which in turn encourages good health.

The shank of a Cantilever Shoe is drawn up, by lacing the shoe, to fit the instep and provide restful support. And it FLEXES WITH THE FOOT. It does not bind the muscles and impede circulation as a rigid sole does. It strengthens the muscles by allowing them freedom to exercise, thus preventing or correcting weak arches.

WHEN HUBBY "GOT MOVE ON"

Sudden Desire to See How the Thermometer Stood Might Have Had an Explanation.

He kicked off his wet shoes, slid his tired feet into a pair of carpet slippers, lit his pipe, sat down in the easy chair, and declared that nothing could make him stir from the house till next morning. "Henry," said his wife, "you posted that letter I gave you this morning, I suppose?" "I did, my love," he answered, unblushingly. "I asked mother to postpone her visit for a while," his wife went on. "You see—"

Henry did so. His wife saw, too. What she saw was the tired man jump from his chair, kick off his slippers, put on his shoes and skip out into the murky street.

And when, five minutes later, Henry returned with the tale that he had just been to see how the thermometer outside the postoffice stood, she smiled.

JAMES AT LEAST WAS FRANK
Explanation, However, Must Have Been Cold Comfort for Young American Lady.

"The butler in a Scotch family," says an American of that extraction, "occupies a privileged and unique position. He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech that seems to American ears to border on impertinence; but to those who know him his frank speech is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare."

"A young American woman was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigned. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement; but one day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, and a little while before the meal was served the butler waylaid the young American in the hall.

"'I'm fearin' there'll no be quite enough soup,' he whispered, 'so when it's offered, ye mair decline it, lass.' " "Decline soup, James?" she said, laughing, "why, that would not be polite."

"'Well not, precisely,' said James, with a beaming smile, but they'll make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye ken one better.' "—Philadelphia Ledger.

Image Puzzles Antiquarians.
Dug up in Southfields, Eng., a weird little stone figure baffles experts as to its origin. It is of flint, of a reddish color, and is, apparently, a grotesque image of some kind. The lower part of the body is, unfortunately, missing, as well as portions of the arms, but the carving of the face is quite clear, though of primitive workmanship. Authorities at the British museum are vague as to its origin, but are of the opinion that it is a relic of post-medieval times. The soil in which the image was discovered is of London clay, and is on the site of a pond which not many years ago was drained for housing purposes.

Queer "Ornamentation."
The natives of the South Sea islands bore holes in the lobes of their ears, which gradually stretch until they reach down to their shoulders. In these openings are inserted such articles as pipes, etc. Anything which comes their way, for which they cannot imagine a use, they are fond of suspending round their necks. China deer handles, cartridge cases, wheels of alarm clocks, are often "worn" in this way. One islander has been observed wearing the leg of a couch complete with its castor round his neck.

Belligerent Rooster.
A big black Minorca rooster, full-bred and owned by a chicken fancier at Orwigsburg, Pa., the other day attacked a little four-year-old girl, inflicting wounds, scars of which will be carried for life. The rooster knocked her down and thrust its spurs into her forehead at the upper part of her nose, just between the eyes. Her screams brought help just in time to save the child's eyes.

Favored by St. Valentine.
An Ontario reader says: "Mr. and Mrs. Watson were married on St. Valentine's day three years ago. The following St. Valentine's day a daughter was born. The second child, also a daughter, was born St. Valentine's this year. The happy couple are receiving congratulations on the happy coincidences."

Eight Children at One Birth.
The President of the republic of Mexico sent $750 to Señora Enriqueta Rufo of Tampico, Mexico, because she recently gave birth to eight children in one day. None of the babes survived, however.

Remember This Bird.
"My dad likes the old songs, I'm trying to get one for him, but I can't think of its name." "Do you know what it is about?" "About some bird who lived in a gilded cage."—Judge.

Amphibian Fish.
The climbing fish or climbing perch is able to live out of water for several days without distress, during which it regularly breathes air; when it returns to the water it uses its gills, so that it may be regarded as truly amphibian.

This life's a serious affair. And far too short, we find. To settle every doubt and care That creeps into the mind. And so I said, "There's need of haste! If pleasure should beguile The hours away, I'll waste the waste! I have no time to smile!"

A gleam of sunshine crossed the sky. A baby laughed with glee; In solemn mood I passed them by. They had no claim for me. For I had not resolved to take The world in serious style. And say, "All joy is a mistake! I have no time to smile!"

And this the breeze seemed to say, "Smile these days you cheer, The splendid sun so far away. The little child so near? Were light and laughter made in vain? Pause for a little while: Employ the heart and rest the brain And take the time to smile!" —Washington Star.

POKER GAME DELAYED TRAIN

Group of "Tired Business Men" See Blue Chips in Plenty, But No Azure Skies.

The twin propellers keep up their "poom, poom" while the tired business men are pouring over the gangplank for the homeward trip down the bay, for the Sandy Hook flyers take pride in adding away from the pier at full-road speed. But that musical "poom, poom" is as stimulating to the tired business men as the hom-tom is to the dusky dwellers of the Congo country, for it calls them to mysterious rites of bridge, poker, hearts and what not with which to beguile the trip to Atlantic Highlands.

So fascinating are those rites with the clicking of red, white and blue chips, that the card players still linger over their game after the speedy Monmouth or the Sandy Hook has tied up at the Atlantic Highlands pier, and it is with difficulty that they are shoed ashore to board the trains waiting to carry them to their summer homes. And that makes a problem for the railroad men, for the starting of the trains is delayed by the dawdling of the "rotaries of the Goddess of Chance."

Especially hypnotic is the "poom, poom" of the 5:20 boat which carries a crowded convention of tired business men to their homes in Monmouth county. Their one thought seems to be to exchange the excitement of stocks for the excitement of cards, and the boat becomes a floating casino. Blue water, flying clouds, ocean traffic and sea breezes—all are disregarded, because the tired business man insists on playing exactly as he works. —New York Sun.

MAY BE OUT FOR REVENGE

French Fishermen Uneasy Over Presence of Mate of Sailfish They Had Captured.

A huge sailfish, a fish rarely met with in the Atlantic, has been captured by fishermen off Concarneau, in France, and towed to that port. The fish measures eight meters long and four meters in circumference and weighs four tons.

The fishermen are greatly disturbed over the presence in the vicinity of the fish's female companion, who followed her captured lord throughout the whole of the night he was being towed to port.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT.
"The fortune teller said I would meet with a fatal accident." "Mercy." "But she said not to worry; it wouldn't happen till the end of my life."

Just to Keep Busy.

The son of a well-known physician loves to "play doctor." The little fellow makes the rounds of neighboring houses, inquiring as to the health of the inmates. Usually, he has with him an assortment of dolls—his "patients" in lieu of larger ones.

Recently he called at a home and asked: "Anybody ill here?" He was answered in the negative. "Oh, well," he said, with professional nonchalance, producing two of his dolls. "I'll leave a couple of babies, anyway."

Latter-Day Art.

"This stage beauty is billed as a daring dancer." "Strictly speaking, there are no more dancers of that kind," said Mr. Grumson. "The limit of daring was reached and passed long ago. Nowadays we merely view the performance and wonder whether the show will go on or the star will be arrested." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Peculiar Tribal Mania.

There is a tribe in the central part of Africa which has a mania for anything made of glass. It is common for them to insert pieces of glass in the upper lip. This results in what appears to us as a horrible disfigurement.

Miss Mathilda Bankhardt, a former student nurse in the German Deaconess Hospital in Chicago, is suing Dr. Justine L. Mitchell, staff physician, for $25,000. She alleges he kissed her twice, the kisses being timed three years apart. He denies the charge.

Colonel Marcellus H. Thompson, vice president and active head of the Auto Ordnance Co. (at right), has been indicted, with seven others, by a federal grand jury at Trenton, N. J., charged with being involved in an attempt to ship nearly 500 sub-machine guns to the Irish Republican army. The guns, with a large quantity of ammunition, were found in the coal bunkers of the freighter East Side when it was ready to sail for Europe. Colonel Thompson, a New York man, is son-in-law of Ambassador George Harvey and son of General John P. Thompson, U. S. A., retired, inventor of the gun.

Mrs. Leland Stanford Wood, wife of a New York sportsman and sister of Walter S. Wood, millionaire baker, who killed Clarence Peters, a Massachusetts man, in an alleged blackmail battle, was taken before the grand jury at White Plains, N. Powerful Explosive.
When liquid air containing from 40 to 50 per cent of oxygen is mixed with powdered charcoal it forms an explosive which is said to be comparable in power to dynamite and can be exploded by means of a detonator, says the Washington Star. This explosive has been used in coal mines. The liquid air evaporates so rapidly that the explosive cannot be stored, but must be used within a few minutes after it is prepared.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 22.—The stock market opened irregular today. Mexican Petroleum showed a loss of 2 points at 173 and Pan American Petroleum was 1/2 lower at 72 1/2. Gulf States Steel rose 1 1/4 to 79 1/2 while U. S. Steel was 1/4 lower at 99. Sudebaker moved up 1/4 to 128 1/2 and Anaconda was 1/4 lower at 51.

After irregular movements in the first quarter hour trading, the market was subjected to pressure from speculative sources. Room traders were large sellers of Mexican Petroleum during the first hour's business, forcing it down 3 1/4 to 171 1/2. The motors were under pressure.

There were many rapid changes in the market in the afternoon and the market closed strong; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.
